Generative AI tool for climate data

The US-based startup OpenESG has launched ChatESG: a conversational AI assistant for ESG and sustainability data, methodologies, and standards that provides intuitive access to OpenESG's global sustainability database. The ChatESG platform integrates business-specific logic and data from small and medium enterprises, public companies, and partnerships to provide rapid verified responses to queries. For businesses in particular, ChatESG is designed to simplify the understanding and application of ESG, climate and sustainability data.
